

David Allen Hovda, PhD

David Hovda is currently the Vice-Chief of Research, Division of Neurosurgery; a Professor in the Department of Molecular and Medical Pharmacology; the Director of the Brain Injury Research Center in the Division of Neurosurgery; and Director of the Neurotrauma Laboratory in the Division of Neurosurgery, all at the David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA in Los Angeles, California. Dr. Hovda received his BA in Psychology (1979); his MS in Psychobiology (1982); and his PhD in Psychobiology (1985), all from the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque, New Mexico. He received his Postdoctoral Degree in Neurophysiology after his studies at the Mental Retardation Research Center, Neuropsychiatric Institute of UCLA in Los Angeles, California (1987).

Dr. Hovda's honors include the Benjamin Franklin Haught Memorial Award (1985), the Giannini Foundation Postdoctoral Scholar Award (1987), the National Head Injury Foundation Young Investigator Award (1991), the Lind Lawrence Eminent Scholar (1992), and recognition for his support of Women in Neurotrauma Research (2006). He is also a member of the International Neurotrauma Society, the National Neurotrauma Society, and Women in Neurotrauma Research. He also serves on several committee assignments with the National Institutes of Health.

Dr. Hovda has an extensive publication history, which includes books, book chapters, abstracts, and presentations throughout his career.