

Job Summary

Diagnostic Radiologic Technologist GS-647

Job summary Diagnostic Radiologic Technologist series covers positions requiring the performance or supervision of technical work in the field of diagnostic radiologic examinations, performed under the direction of a physician. The work involves the operation of radiologic equipment in a hospital or clinic environment as part of the diagnostic plan for patients.

Education Must (1) have successfully completed an educational program that meets or exceeds the standards described in Public Law 97-35, and is accredited by an organization recognized by the Department of Education.

Licenses or Certificates Be certified as radiographers in their field. Licensure requirements vary depending on if hired before or after 1/13/86. Refer to OPM

Source: Office of Personnel Management (opm.gov)