

Dr. William Liebman, currently working as a Pediatrician in the San Marin County, California area has been charged with diluting child vaccines to the point that the patient may not have been effectively immunized against diseases like Hepatitis B, meningitis and whooping cough. If any of your family members received immunizations from Dr. Liebman during the period of January 1997 to present, please read the following letter. Investigations continue into the period prior to 1997 to determine if there is any evidence of diluted vaccinations being used.
